"Sometimes the little times you don't think are anything while they're happening turn out to be what marks a whole period of your life."

-Andy Warhol

Sure we all know that "time flies", but how many of us actually take these two words to heart? Not many. It seems so simple to grasp, yet we continue to live our lives without any sort of realization that we will never get these years back. Andy Warhol described this scene so perfectly when he said: "Sometimes the little times you don't think are anything while they're happening turn out to be what marks a whole period of your life." This statement exemplifies the high school experience. We show up bright and early every day at 7:28 a.m., for four years straight. We count down the days to graduation and anticipate going off to college and leaving our small town. When we finally graduate and have to part ways with our closest friends, these four years of incredible memories flood our minds. We think of all the good times, the bad times, the friends we've made, the friends we've lost, and how we've come about finding ourselves. For the first time, we actually see the impact that high school has had on our lives. Although this quote isn't meant to bring about a sad recollection of the times we've had, it's meant to remind each and every one of us to make the most of our lives, and make sure we are living our lives to the fullest every moment we can.

"The mystery was gone but the amazement was just starting."

-Andy Warhol

Each of us walked into this school four years ago with a halo and a pocketful of sunshine, but as that graduation date creeps closer, we've been thinking "so what?" Although we've been through hot 'n' cold and, at times, have gotten a little dangerous, we don't get damaged; we've learned that all you can do when times get tough is shake it off and just dance. We don't care if you stop and stare, just please don't stop the music. We're seniors, and I gotta feeling we're going to remember this party in the USA forever.

This year, each student brings a little more pretty boy swag to the hallways of Saint Clair High School. Every boy wants to party like a rockstar and every girl wants to pop lock and drop it. They don't just walk to class anymore; they walk it out. They're getting in all sorts of trouble day 'n' nite, but always find a way to blame it on someone (or something) else. The girls walk around with that empire state of mind, but the boys don't care because they can make those good girls go bad. This year the students are bringing sexyback. They don't just run this school, they run this town.

Q: How has junior year been difficult for you?

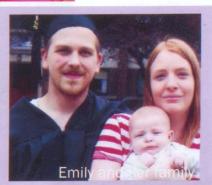

A: "I think that junior year has a "bad rep", but really it's not that bad other than the fact that I get a lot more homework."

Q: What challenges have you faced because of your unique situation?

A: "The unique situation I've faced has caused a shortage of money, a lot of stress, and trying to grow up in a matter of a few months, all while still being a kid."

Q: What do you plan on doing after you get out of high school?

A: "I am excited to get out of high school. I want to jumpstart my career by getting a job to generate money to help support my family."

"The idea of waiting for something makes it more exciting."

-Andy Warhol

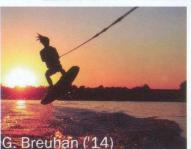

School's out and the show goes on as the summer sun comes out to save the world from spring fever. The money from that summer job is rollin' in like gucci gucci, and backroad mud bogging has everybody rolling in the deep. Boys ask where them girls at as summer romances heat up and teach girls how to love. Everybody turns up that super bass, jamming to their own party rock anthem. Nobody can stop talking about last Friday night, but let's cheers (I'd drink to that if I were 21) to tonight tonight. Whether it's that vacation you've been waiting for that has you screaming "I wanna go", or that small get-together with friends that has you screaming "I don't wanna go home", this summer has everybody living on the edge of glory. Summer 2011 sure is the good life; and I don't know about you, but right now it seems to me like school is the best thing I never had.

The Great Outdoors

Warmth kissing your cheeks, toes in the sand, and wind blowing through your hair... those are the true feelings of summertime. Not a day went by this summer that students were not outside around town. There were constantly kids recreating memories at Greig Park, flipping tricks at the skate park, swimming in the river, or just chilling in their backyard. Gabe Al-Gharabally ('14) got a job this summer mowing lawns. When he had a break from raking in the cash, he liked to fish with his friends and family. "It is too nice outside to be stuck indoors, so I am always hanging with friends around town or at my cousins." However, Gabe wasn't the only student spending time soaking up rays of sunshine this summer!

The Sounds of Summer

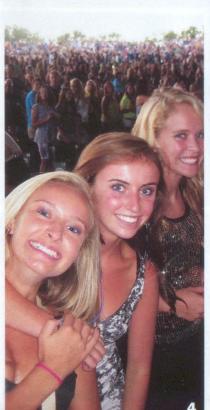

Summer can be described in so many words, but let's stop and think for a minute, what sounds bring back the moments of the crazy memories made in the summer sunshine? Is it the fearless splash into the cold, sparkling water of the St. Clair River or the windows down and music bumpin' through town? Is it flip-flops flopping against the green grass, or short-shorts and a pair of converse running over the wooden-boardwalk? Whatever that sound is to you, capture it and remember it; they are memories that will last forever. When school starts to drag along in the cold winter months, look forward to those sounds and remember that before you know it...the sweet sounds will soon enough bring new experiences and even better times.

1. Justin Duchene ('12) and Liesl Caister ('13) forget that school is fast-approaching and pump up to the beat of their pom-poms for the first win of the season. 2. Jeans or shorts, flip flops or Converse, many high school students "swing to the rhythm of love" during the sweet summer months. 3. There is nothing that draws the ear to the thought of summer more than the lick of cold, sweet ice cream against the tastebuds of a tongue, or the loud slurp of a 69 cent slurpee from Speedy-Q. Avary Humes ('15) bites to the beat of a big, blue moon ice cream. 4. What would a summer be without attending the hottest concert with your best friends? Katie Karadjoff, Mysha Bryan, and Maison Burr ('13) rocked at the Ke$ha concert. 5. Not to "toot his horn" or anything, but after countless hours of marching and practice, Scott Brickner ('14) stood out due to his talent and enthusiasm.

What's Your Sound of Summer?

"Something about the crackling of the sticks and leaves takes me back to the summer nights with friends around the fire."

-Jake Geml ('12)

"The seagulls are definitely the sound of summer. They're like the symbol of the beach!" -Mia Manella ('13)

"When I close my eyes and think about summer, I hear the waves rolling in against the shore." -Erin King ('15)

"The sound of a lawnmower cutting the grass is the ultimate noise of the summer."
-Matt Litton ('14)

Moolah

Money is money, no matter how you get it. It is always on the minds of Saint Clair High School students, or anyone for that matter. It makes no difference whether you're earning money for the school like Shelby Measel ('12). Student Council members are the ones who have to sell tickets for dances, and they are the ones selling Homecoming class shirts as well. Shelby knows all about money, she was the council member elected to collect money from students who were purchasing class shirts. Money will forever be a part of our lives whether we realize it now, or in the next ten years. Even though the economy isn't looking so good, SCHS students will always cherish their moolah.

How much money do you spend filling up your gas tank?

"Thirty-five dollars at least, usually more."

-Brendan Buffa ('12)

"It costs about four or five dollars to completely fill up my tank "

-Taran Adams ('14)

"Well, I just take my parents' car everyday, so they pay for my gas. I guess I'm spoiled." -Griffin Trenz ('12)

1. Connor Winckler ('14) flashes both a smile and a five dollar bill, as he gets ready to spend it at Achatz. 2. Kelsey Blanchard ('13) tries to scrape up some extra spending money to get a hot chocolate on a cold summer evening. 3. Alyssa Quail ('13) lends her best friend Sarah Taipale ('13) a few bucks for a Riverside ice cream cone. After all, what are friends for? 4. What a lucky find for Andrew Biscarner ('13), who is quick to pick up a quarter left behind on the sidewalk downtown. 5. Parting with money is always hard, but Goldie Breuhan ('14) decides that beating the summer heat with a Slurpee is worth saying goodbye to a few dollars.

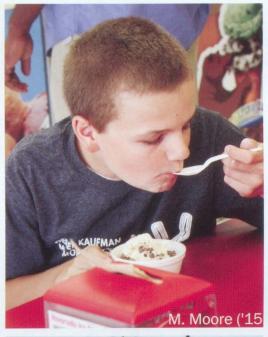

Downtown

Oh, summer time. It's a period of relaxation and endless fun and where better to spend the summer than downtown? While strolling down the boardwalk, you pass smiling faces, and witness all the good times being had. The mall is full of unique stores and restaurants that offer fun for all ages. "I like going downtown because it's a simple way to meet up with friends, and I love Dragon Wok too!" Kristen Poppe ('14) explains when asked what was so special about the downtown experience. She also added that all summer long you could find her eating at Dragon Wok or Coney Island with a couple of her closest friends.

R. Fisher ('13) and S. Caister ('14

1. Completely confident while wearing his bold sunglasses, Ben Edwards ('13) can't help but smile as he enjoys his time in downtown St. Clair.

2. Caught up in the beauty of the shimmering water, Andy Fouchey ('13) casually gazes out upon the river, truly spoiled with the gorgeous sights.

3. Soaking up some summer sun, Brad Kent ('13) kicks back and works on his tan on the boardwalk downtown.

4. Enjoying a lazy floatdown, Makenzie Distelrath ('14) climbs out of the chilly water, ready for another adventure down the St. Clair River.

5. In a thrilling explosion of color and excitement, the 4th of July fireworks light up the night and stun the audience with the jaw-dropping grand finale!

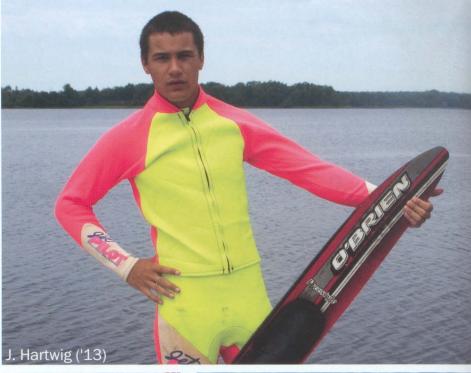

What is downtown to you?

Splish-Splash

Summer is defined as the hottest season of the year. It occurs between spring and autumn; during the months of June, July, and August. It can also be defined as a period of fulfillment, happiness, and beauty. All unique students at St. Clair High School spend their summers in different ways. Whether they are chilling at the beach, floating down the river, jet skiing up north or free falling down a waterslide, we sure know how to stay hot while keeping cool. Joe Hartwig ('13) spent part of his summer at a family cottage, in the Upper Peninsula, on Lake Millecoquin. This was his first time waterskiing. Joe's cousin, Olivia Packan ('15) seems to have just as much fun up north as Joe does. "We go tubing, waterskiing, knee boarding, boating, and jet skiing on my grandma's lake. The whole family just has a blast together." SCHS students all spent their summers differently; however, they all spent time by the pool, or at the beach, making a splash!

Top 5 places to make a Splash!

- 1. Cedar Point's Soak City Waterpark
- 2. Lakes Up North
- 3. Port Huron Beaches
- 4. St. Clair River
- 5. Backyard Pools

1. While at Mrs. Westricks' house for a yearbook shindig, Nicole Denny ('14) leaps for joy into the refreshing St. Clair River on a humid summer afternoon. 2. The girls' varsity swim coach, Mrs. Seaman, couldn't seem to stay out of the water this summer as she prepared for the team's annual float down. 3. While in Mysha Bryan's pool, best friends Katie Karadjoff, Mysha Bryan, Chrissy Gauss, Scott Hadwin, and Maison Burr ('13) captured their summer memories underwater! 4. Danielle Osiwala and Amelia Black ('15) show that that they know what summer is all about: sunshine, relaxation, and keeping cool. 5. While at the Soaring Eagle Resort in Mt. Pleasent, Ashlee Clees ('15) captures a beautiful summer moment that she will always remember.

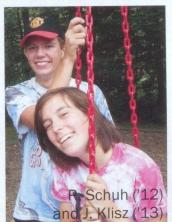

Childhood Memories

Over the summer, students have an incredible freedom to do whatever their little heart's desire. It is a chance for them to escape the stresses of school and feel like a kid again. Jason Bratton ('12) spent all of his free time doing his favorite hobbies, which included swimming, drawing, writing music, and singing. Living in town made it easy for Jason to ride his bike to the river and swim all the time! He also recalls, "My absolute favorite memory from this summer was hanging out with my brother." Entering his senior year, Jason certainly made this summer a memorable one.

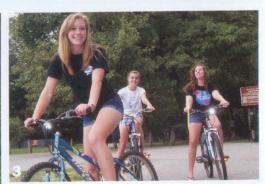

1. After having made it to the top of the Burger King playground, Taran Adams ('14) gives a thumbs up once he has finished clearing all of the obstacles. 2. Looking at his run-down sandbox, Darren Bondy ('15) thinks of all the times he spent playing carelessly for hours on end.

3. Playing follow-the-leader, Taylor Stone, Laura Belanger, and Shannon Stone ('13) bike home from their productive summer NHS retreat. 4. Proving that the "Imagination Station" is not only for children, Kevin Brunner ('13) is all smiles as he comes down the slide.

5. Just chillin' in the slide after his BK meal, Kyle Bashaw ('12) continues to "have it his way" and breaks the rules by entering the children's play area.

{Lauren Bondy} 83

Stayin' Active

For most students, summer vacation means sleeping in, eating whenever there's food in the fridge, and only lifting a finger to turn on MTV. For others, though, summer is no time to get lazy. Not only do they stay physically active, but they stay active with their SCHS spirit! There might not be anymore homework, but that doesn't mean there isn't anymore Saints' pride! As the soon-to-be victorious varsity football team stepped out on the field for the first time all summer long, the crowd (or everybody who did not attend the Ke$ha concert that night) showed that although they may have forgotten their algebra, they sure did remember their red and blue!

1. With painted faces and much anticipation, the football fans fill the stands for the first game of the season. 2. Lookin' cute with their bare legs 'n' all, Rebecca Buslepp, Chloe Lewis, Estee Dale, Carmen Sharrow, and Kelsey Kerin ('12) watch their boys warm up before the game. 3. Getting together for one final huddle, the Saints fire up and prepare to fight for a win against Richmond. 4. Shouting loud and proud for his peers on the field, Andrew Beggs ('13) chants along with the cheerleaders and the rest of the band. 5. Hoping to shake off her pre-game jitters, Danielle Osiwala ('15) dances around with her team before cheering her first ever varsity football game.

Parties

As the school year ends, SCHS students wish the best of luck to their graduating class mates, drop the studies, and get ready to party with their friends. Whether it is a normal get together with friends or a crazy rave, a SCHS student knows how to get the party started. Summer is a time to let loose from all the stressful homework assignments and begin to hangout with friends. Ryan Schuh and Kevin Quednau ('12) had the right idea this summer, throwing a party at the beach on one of the hottest days of summer. Ryan, Kevin, and their friends said it was a blast, except the part where they forgot the most important thing to bring to the beach sunscreen. "It was one of my favorite summer memories. What really topped it off was waking up and not being able to move the next day!" said Ryan. Whether it's getting burnt at a party or sending off their graduating friends, SCHS students know that parties are the most memorable times during summer.

1. Using his soccer skills, Nate Shrapnell ('12) stealthily steals the ball away while kicking around with his friends. 2. Celebrating the start of the new school year, many SCHS students show off their new mascot, Garrett Dunsmore ('13), for the upcoming Student Council year. 3. Wasting the day away by the pool, Lauren Dooley and Taylor Stirling ('13) savor the summer. 4. Up all night, Hannah Winkler ('12), Chrissy Gauss, Katie Karadjoff, John Joachim ('13), and Kate Jarett ('12) party until dawn at a get together before school starts. 5. At a birthday party, Joanna Gorecki and Kim Rylander ('12) warm up after a quick midnight swim.

If you could party with any celebrity who would it be?

"I would party with Michael Buble because of his sense of style and his voice." -Aaron Buckley ('13)

" I would party with Eminem because I would want to have a rap battle with him and win." -Sunny Karnan ('13)

"I would party with Lady Gaga because I love her uniqueness and her music." -Ashley Wilkey ('13)

Ridin' Around

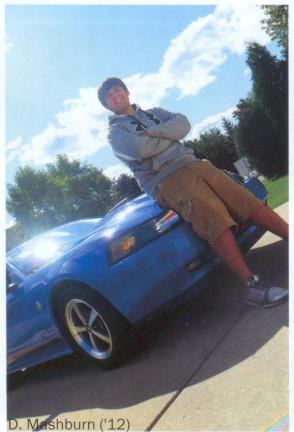

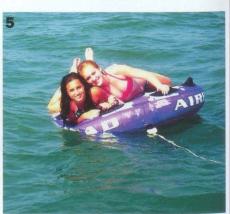

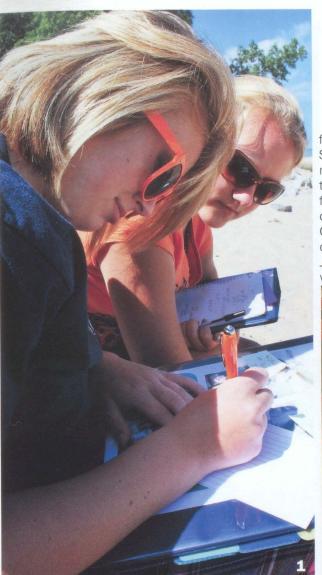

1. Megan Westrick ('14) enjoys nothing more than spending some quality time in the summer sun with her beloved horse, Maverick. 2. Keeping cool, Mackenzie Mazzola ('15) makes some waves in the Pine River. 3. Skate Park addict, Jacob Kyrzekowsi ('12), has some fun and spends his last few days of summer showing off to his friends. 4. New driver, Hannah Bradley ('14) is all eyes as she focuses on getting home, after a long day of dance practice. 5. All tired out, Elizabeth Dillon and Erica Werden ('15) take a break from their exhausting river adventures to capture a moment together.

To the freshmen and sophomores of St.Clair High School, summer means A LOT of exercise. Not yet old enough to have their licenses, the classes of ('14) and ('15) get to their anticipated destinations the old fashioned way; biking, rollerblading, skateboarding, or maybe even by horse! However, to the lucky juniors and seniors, summer means getting the chance to zip around town in that shiny new car (or rusty old clunker) with the windows down and the music blaring. No matter what age, no one is too young - or too old - to go tubing or kayaking when things get hot. "My favorite part of summer was ridin' around at the Woodward Dream Cruise and showing off Sally, my stang," Senior, Dylan Mashburn, (shown right) says.

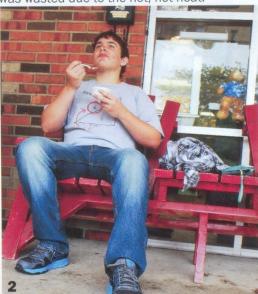

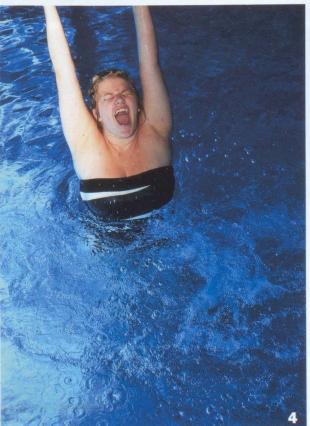

Keepin' Cool

There are a couple of things that are certain about summer: it is a time for fun and partying. It comes with many mornings made for sleeping in, and Saints forget all they had learned the previous year. One of the most memorable factors of this year's summer was the heat. No one can deny that this summer was especially steamy. The summer of 2011 will go down as the fifth hottest summer since 1880. In July alone there were fifteen consecutive days of 90 degree heat. No matter how hot the weather was, and despite Channel 4 advising people to stay indoors and drinks lots of fluids, nothing could hold back Saint Clair Saints from celebrating summer. From the fourth of July fireworks to The Off Shore Boat Races, not a single moment of summer was wasted due to the hot, hot heat.

1. All work with little play, Amber Dunbar ('13) and Shelby Measel ('12) get a head start on the school year, as they work on their Student Council projects at their meeting at Lakeport Beach.

2. Savoring every last bite, Garrett Hadwin ('13) cherishes the last of his ice cream. 3. Escaping from the horrid thoughts of the looming school year, Darian Ambrose ('13) relishes in the scent of her favorite hand soap during a back-to-school shopping spree. 4. Celebrating her victorious score while playing water volleyball, Kate McGowan ('13) splashes around in her pool on a muggy July night. 5. Avoiding a chilly hosing, Holly Hutcheson ('12) tries to keep cool during a long day of scorching hot summer leadership meetings.

"I kept cool over the summer by staying sedentary and moving as little as possible." -Adam Jandura ('13)

Gettin' Creative

Some say that art is a way to communicate worldwide. In today's society, some see art as a way of connecting people and other places across the globe. For many, art is a form of language that helps artists and art-enthusiasts express their feelings or emotions that are otherwise unexplainable. Although St. Clair is a small little town, artwork is not limited to just the art fair; it can be found anywhere, like the skate park, apartment complex courtyards, numerous banners flying along M-29, or even Grieg Park. Most believe that the beautiful St. Clair River is what attracts people to our town, but really it's the art that keeps them coming back.

What does your favorite kind of art say about you?

A. Mosaics - Feel free to get creative.

B. Doodles - Perfecting the stars on the top of your homework.

C. Photography - Capture that moment.

D. Paintings and drawings - Let your imagination run wild.

If you answered...

A. You have a talent for making something out of nothing.

B. You have a great ability to multi-task.

C. You have a passion for capturing inspiration.

D. You have great perception and an intensity for expressing yourself.

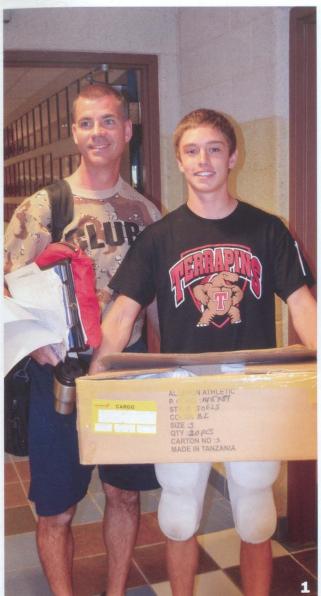

88 (Katie Kennedy)

1. Monkey see, monkey do. Madison Moore ('14) gives an acrobatic impression of a statue downtown as she demonstrates her astonishing gymnastics abilities. 2. Tyler Sullivan and Brandon Miner ('14) connect to the art by mimicking the metal fish sculpture by the river this past summer. 3. Fred Duemling ('12), along with other SCHS students, sells popcorn and Cracker Jacks to benefit the National Honors Society at the art fair over the summer. 4. Andy Fouchey ('13), one of the few SCHS students who attended the art fair this year, volunteers his time to the St. Clair Art Association and helps little kids paint has and other things.

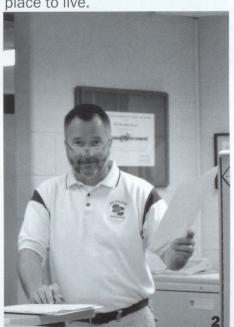

5. Though they aren't running in the photo, the copper sprinkler's, available for purchase at the art fair, keep the viewers cool all day.

Community

Summer is about having fun. Waking up at noon, staying up until midnight, and spending the days accomplishing the impossible. However, this summer was spent helping make our city a better town. Some may not know this, but our community is full of people volunteering their time. From Randy Beier ('13) helping out his coaches, to Mr. Miller preparing for the new school year, everyone from students to administrators donated their time in every way that they can to make St. Clair a better place to live.

1. There's more to football than just tossing a ball around. Randy Beier ('13) volunteers his time, with Coach Nesbit, in order to help out his team in whatever way possible. 2. Many students think that teachers and administrators get their summers off. However, Mr. Miller is at the school every weekday preparing for the new school year. 3. With elderly neighbors, who are unable to take care of their yard work any longer, David Meinke ('14) helps out and takes care of their lawn for them. 4. Although many kids do not like working, Taylor Rossi ('13) enjoys spending her days making up fun, new smoothies and coffee drinks at Sue's Coffee House. 5. Brad Kent ('13) hates mowing his lawn more than anything in the world, so to compensate for the pain and agony that he has to endure, he puts in his headphones and jams out to his favorite tunes.

of Teens in the United States Hold a Job

Andy Drummond ('12) is proud to be a part of that 54%. Andy is currently employed at our local McDonald's. There, he also works alongside ten other SCHS students.

Worldly

1. How many can brag about their trip along the Amazon River to the beautiful country of Peru!? Amelia Black and Daneille Osiwala ('15) are two lucky girls who had this experience in the beginning of August. 2. After her sophomore year, and her second year of Spanish, Mysha Bryan ('13) gets to test out her newly learned language along the sensational streets of Spain.
3. Rather than taking a vacation this summer, Shannon Stone and Laura Belanger ('13) spend their time admiring the St. Clair River from their favorite tree along the boardwalk. 4. While vacationing in Europe, Lizzie Barrett ('14) experiences an unforgettable moment as she reaches for the soft, gentle paw of a monkey. 5. Obviously extremely busy this summer, Michael Laudazio ('13) made his way not only to Disney World, but also to the Bahamas; two places he had never seen before.

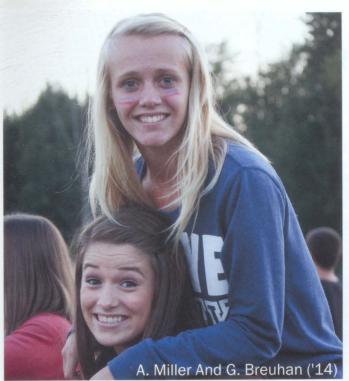

Every individual has their own idea of summer and how they plan on spending that time. Whether it's exploring another country, taking a road trip to a different state, or soaking up some rays in the backyard, St. Clair students make the best of summer! The school only provides students with seven absences each semester, allowing very little time to travel or take any vacations. Summer is the perfect opportunity to visit any one of the spectacular places on the globe without having to worry about catching up on work, verifying absences, or missing that big game. "A vacation is having nothing to do and all day to do it in." It's the time in our lives to lean back and create wondrous memories that last a lifetime. Let the summer take you worldly.

Friends -n-Family

"The best part of life is when your family becomes your friends, and your friends become your family." This is easy to do in our small town where anybody knows almost everybody. There are siblings of all ages in our town, and people who have been friends since they were born. Most of our parents have attended St. Clair High School when they were younger. Goldie Breuhan and Allison Miller ('14) are two friends that always have each other's backs and are not afraid to show their Saints spirit. They got to know each other back in elementary school, and are still friends to this day!

1. Hannah Bradley and Maddie Aguilo ('14) like to cruise around town together with their friends during the summertime to enjoy the sunshine. 2. Two of the 14 Matthews children, Monica ('14) and Erica ('12), take a quick picture together at home every once in awhile to show their sisterly love. 3. Check out these pretty girls! Tabitha Baron ('13), Emily Schweihofer ('12), Allison Shaune, and Nicole Holowaty ('14) are always smiling in the sweet summertime because no school means no worries! 4. Mrs. Joe and Ms. Shucknecht aggressively pose after running through the muddy four mile Swamp Foot race. 5. Savannah Koester and Kaitlyn O'Mara ('14) have been best friends for years, and attended Saints Days to get their school pictures taken together.

What nicknames do you and your best friend have for each other?

"I call Blake Trujillo ('12) Plake, and he calls me Job."

- Cody Mahaffy ('13)

"Josh Ochasleus ('13) is Fish, and I'm Snax!"

- Robbie Joachim ('13)

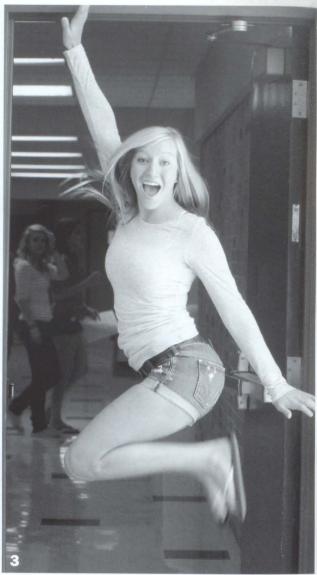

Still Learnin'

The first day of school can be stressful and exciting all at the same time. New students hold onto their schedules like they're the only thing keeping them on track, but for some, a schedule can be the source of problems. Lizzie Barrett ('14) was looking forward to school and the classes she had signed up for, but she got a shocking surprise when she walked into her Spanish II class. It was full of seniors who all seemed to know Spanish like it was the back of their hand! Feeling out of place, Lizzie finally found a friendly face. "Mrs. Fielhauer came up to me and asked me what I was doing here, and she told me that this was a Spanish III class!" Lizzie recalls. To her relief, she was switched out and put into the proper class, but she will never forget how a single messed up schedule got her stuck in a class full of upper classmen.

How much did you spend on your back-to-school shopping spree?

6 notebooks - $6.00

6 folders - $3.60

Pencils - $4.00

6 binders - $18.00

Color pencils - $1.00

6 book covers - $12.00

Backpack-$20.00

Total-$64.60

1. Back to school sales engulf stores, taking over the aisles; lining them with back packs and supplies - all great deals for students to purchase for the up coming year. 2. Taking in the whole high school experience, Dylan St Pierre and Andrew Robertson ('15), chat about the year to come.

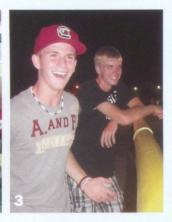

3. Who says school is a bad thing? Lena Szuminski ('14) feels lighter than air returning back to St.Clair High School. 4. The realization that summer is almost over hits home for Austin Smith ('14) while making his locker more personal for the school year. 5. Another year, and more memories to be made, Hannah Packan and Erin Kenny ('13) look forward to the interesting year ahead of them.

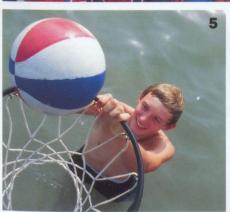

No Trouble Here

1. Blowing off school and embracing summer, Liesl Caister ('13) finds her inner child with a bottle of bubbles at a friend's grad party. 2. Love at first sight does exist, puppy love that is. Hope Katakis, Ben Edwards, Tyler Arant, Andrew Fouchey ('13), and Nicole Denny ('14) make a new friend down by the boardwalk. 3. Getting into the game, Adam Hall ('14) argues about a call for our team late in the third quarter. 4. At the kickoff game to a fantastic season, Ryan Gee, Ali Corlic, Nikolai Loznak, Scott Drummond, Nick Soave, Branden Pavlov, Mac Roberts, Hunter McFarlane, Ean Eberhard, and Todd Armstrong ('15) make some noise for their favorite team: the Saint Clair Saints! 5. Clarke Lamb ('15) has no trouble getting the basketball into the net or finding some good clean fun.

This summer was the perfect time to do anything imaginable. Whether it was swimming, laying out in the sun, or just hanging out with friends; students found things to do. Jalissa Watt ('14) played softball, and on a beautiful hot summer day, Jalissa played her first game with her new team. As, she was warming up, Jay bent over to pick up a grounder, when she heard a rip. When she turned around, she found exactly what she dreaded, her pants were split right in half! As embarrassing as it was, the story gets worse. Jalissa was first up to bat, so she ran up to her coach and told him she couldn't bat. They ended up using shiny silver duck tape right down the seam of her white pants; which made the incident that much more noticeable. "My whole team followed me around all day playing the Spongebob 'I Ripped My Pants' song," said Jalissa.

"They say that time changes things, but you actually have to change them yourself."

-Andy Warhol

It's that time again, and you can't deny the good feeling that comes with the first few weeks of school. Homecoming was right around the corner, and the only way I was going was if someone like you said yes. Dancing in the dark was the perfect opportunity to show off my moves like Jagger in my new pumped up kicks, but I told myself that I wasn't going without you. I was sitting in class listening to Mr. Know It All, but all I could focus on was how I couldn't let you be the one that got away. I couldn't take it anymore, I just stood up, looked you straight in the eyes and said, "You're sexy and I know it...will you be my it girl!?" Yeah, it was a bold approach, but I go big or go home. About a week later, we were breakin' it down on the dance floor as DJ Boof made our stereo hearts beat faster and faster. I guess you could say... we found love.

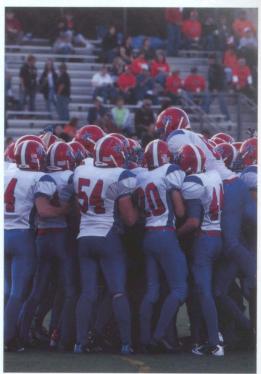

Varsity Football

When 45 boys play a contact support, injuries are not uncommon. At the end of the season there were more than six injured players during the course of the year. Football isn't all about who's on the field the most. It is a game of offense, defense, and support. Each play, the boys cheered on each other's accomplishments and rooted for their teammates no matter what the score.

JV Footbal

The JV football players know all about determination and discipline. They work hard to become the best players that they can. The team works as one, and every player is important. Each play is rehearsed over and over until the players can practically perform them in their sleep. All of the hours of hard work at practice finally payed off for the team, as they finish their season undefeated. They beat teams like East Detroit by as much 61 points. No team managed to score more than 28 points on them offensively. The Mariners were more than shaken up after a crushing defeat by 42 points. Overall It was a great season!

Varsity Cheer

A new set of cheerleaders brought about new changes for the 2011 fall cheer season. Returning girls were surprised with lots and lots of freshmen, new cheers, Justin, and only one bow! Although this took a while to get used to, the members of this co-ed team stood by one another like a family by the end of the season. The team cheered on their boys and embraced their Saints' sportsmanship even when times got tough. They put on a show for their roaring fans at the Homecoming pep assembly. They waved from the top of a fire truck in the Homecoming parade, even though they were soaked from the pouring rain. These cheerleaders never let anything dim their light; they shined.

Oh, BOY!

Senior cheerleader, Justin Duchene, shares what it's like to be the only young man standing on a sideline full of red bows and blue skirts.

"Everyone has grown up watching the 'Bring it On' movies, watching the cheerleaders do amazing flips and stunts that are out of this world. And let's admit, we've always wished we were able to actually do them. Well, I decided at the end of my junior year, 'why not?' I had done gymnastics as a little kid, so I wasn't completely new to the sport. I had the strength to lift the girls in the air, and I have mad hops which made my jumps spectacular. I figured I was just as qualified as any of the other girls trying out.

And as it turned out, I was. I made the team; I was the first boy in over twenty years on the cheerleading team. Cheer ended up being a very positive experience for me. It definitely helped me come out of my shell. You are put in extremely uncomfortable situations and yet you still have to look and act cheerful. I have made so many great friends on the team. The people were the best part. The girls on that team are ridiculous, but I love them all. I'm so happy I had the courage to try out because it was definitely an extremely positive experience."

Varsity Volleyball

With a new coach came changes. Nikki Sygit had the goal of building not only a successful volleyball program, but a closely knit family of thirty six girls. The season had a couple of downs including the injuries of two senior hitters. Despite the injuries the girls played their hearts out every match and fought hard for every ball. They were led this year by co- captains, Taylor Johnson and Chelsea Wilson ('12). They always kept the team's spirits up, on and off the court. There was a new aspect to this year's season, which was the big sister/ little sister pairings. The girls were matched with a freshman player and got to spend lots of time bonding both on and off of the court. This was just one of the ways to help build a successful foundation for a winning program. Another success this year was the girls setting the record for most fifty- fifty sales. They made over $900 at the Varsity football game! It was a successful season full of many laughs and amazing plays!

JV Volleyball

This season, the JV volleyball team encountered some difficulties off the court. Drama presented itself to the team, and with that came tension. Things were rough for a while, until the team starting having intervention sessions. As pictured below, the team gathers together in a circle to resolve any issues, and renew their trust in one-another. These sessions worked wonders for the team, as the silly drama was forgotten; every single teammate became more open. The team became closer, and many unbreakable bonds were created. Through thick and thin, the girls were able to overcome the difficulties and gain something from the experience.

Freshmen Volleyball

As freshmen, high school can seem extremely overwhelming, but thanks to sports, the stressed feelings can be removed. Not only was the team able to bond and develop friendships with one another, but they were able to get to know the other girls involved in the volleyball program here at SCHS. This was made possible through the big sister/little sister method where every varsity player (big sister) was paired with a freshman volleyball player, called a "little sister". The purpose of having a big or little sister was to show, and receive, support throughout the season. This proved to be a great way for the inexperienced players to learn the ropes as they followed in the footsteps of the older players. There was much to be learned, and much fun to be had.

Swim & Dive

This fall, there was a significant decrease in the number of girls that came out for the swim team. Although the team only rostered eight, they weren't about to let that slow them down. The girls swam their hearts out, beat personal records, and even placed second at the annual Forsports Invitational against Marine City, Port Huron Northern, and Marysville. At that meet, the girls took six first place medals. Yet with their low numbers, these ladies had to work ten times harder, be ten times stronger, and not let their opponents' victories hang over their heads when going into other competitions. Thankfully, the strong-minded swimmers held their own and tried their hardest. This year, Amanda Slis ('13), Meghan Lamb, Lena Szuminski ('14) and Taylor Westrick ('15) were the MAC champions in the medley relay and they also qualified for the state meet. Individually Lena and Meghan also competed in the 100 fly and free respectively. Along with them, Katie Kennedy ('14) finished seventh at the regional meet and also qualified for the state meet. Congratulations to them on their success!

1. Meghan Lamb ('14) gets focused before she swims her 100 freestyle, an event that she made the cut for the state meet. 2. Brooke Markel ('13), feeling accomplished after her hard swam event, can't help but show her enthusiasm for the sport with a grin. 3. Boys' Cross-Country

Physical pain, mud, sweat and tears are what makes the boys cross country team real champs. Throughout the season there were plenty of victories, invitational meets, and non stop practicing. This year was by far the most difficult; the cross team had 8 invitation victories and qualified for states for the 12th year in a row (which is the longest streak in the state of Michigan). Not only was this extremely challenging, but it was also the most memorable. This year's team ran their hearts out to get their chance to the run at the Holly Invite. Not only did they get the opportunity to show what their team was all about, but it was the first time in history the cross country team had ever placed 1st at the Holly Invitational; a great accomplishment. The boys cross country team ended the season 7th in the state of Michigan. Rain or shine, this team always seems to come out on top.

Girls' Cross-Country

Although Lady Saints cross country is not the most talked about sport at St. Clair High School, it is definitely one of the most challenging. This year was by far the most nerve racking, even though they were the co-champs of the dual season. The Lady Saints worked hard at the Harbor Beach Invitational; the team placed 3rd and that paid off. Not only was the cross team hard working, but they were also supportive of each other. Not only was the Harbor Beach Invitational something to remember, but so was States. Lauren Zens and Kayla Balfour both qualified for the State meet this year. Lauren Zens placed 75th and Kayla Balfour placed 58th. This year the Lady Saints gave it their all, with the blood, sweat, and tears; they never gave up and gave each meet 150%, and then some...

Boys' Varsity Tennis

Imagine having to give up your entire summer for one sport. Beginning in August, these boys agree to practice daily. Spending two hours on the court each day helps them grow stronger not only as a team, but individually as well. Unfortunately, the season started out pretty rough for the boys. What Was Your Federer Moment?

John Holowaty ('13):

Nervously stepping out on the court, for his first round match at States, John won the coin toss and chose to serve first. His first serve was a little shaky, but he managed to win the point. Gaining some confidence from the last point, John goes to serve and his sideline teamates burst into cheers. Not only was his opponent unable to get his racket on the ball, it is said that the serve was as fast as Roger Federer's.

1. Getting ready to serve, what we can only expect to be an ace, Scott Conlin ('14) gives his opponent an intimidating stare. 2. Alec Rood ('14), caught off guard, manages to return the deep ball cross court, ending the point shortly after that.

Putting absolutely everything that he has into his first serve, John Joachim ('13) leaps off the ground to increase the force he is putting on the ball. 4. Having charged the net in an effort to catch the ball early, Christopher McCormick ('12) hits an angled volley. 5. In a surprisingly close match, Jeremy Carrell ('12) keeps the ball in play, fighting for every point.

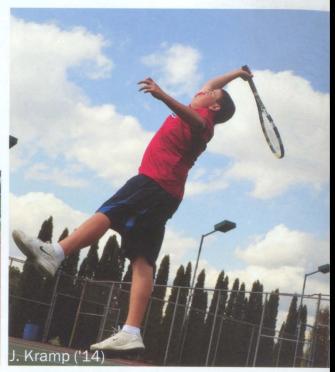

JV Boys' Tennis

Due to insufficient funding, the school was forced to cut the JV tennis program at the end of last year. However, thanks to the dedicated coaches, the school was able to put together enough funds to run the program. Unfortunately, the number of wins were not what the team had hoped for. A lot of matches had to be cancelled due to excessive rain. Regardless, the boys ended up with a winning season; posting a 5-3 record.

JV Cheer

As the school year started, the JV football players were lacking the 'new season pep' in their step. Something was missing, but they could not figure out what. Half way through the season, it became apparent what was missing... a cheer squad. Once added, the crowd found its peppy attitude and the football players once again found their confidence in the game.

Boys' Varsity Soccer

The season was off to a great start until, somehow, the team acquired a bit of bad luck. Five of the seven seniors were affected by injury or illness, which prevented them from playing. Thankfully, in the end, everyone made full recoveries; although the seniors that were affected were saddened to have missed some of their last soccer season. With the support of all the underclassmen, the team was able to step up and fill the shoes of those players. Although the conditions this season were not exactly ideal, the team was able to pull together and end the year with a winning record; quite the accomplishment considering the circumstances.

JV Boys'

With the passing of each sports season comes a fresh year full of its own surprises. This year's surprise for the JV soccer team was its small size. The JV soccer team had a total of 12 players... however; as the season came to a conclusion they were able to recruit an additional teammate. They did not have enough players because the varsity boys' soccer team recruited able players to their team. Although the boys had a small team. they were not at a disadvantage; the boys closed their season with eleven wins, five loses and one tie. Pulling together, the team beat the odds.

Powder Puff

The senior and junior girls of St. Clair High School glittered themselves up while forming their mouth guards because it was that time of year again; it was time for the annual Powder Puff game! The Powder Puff game is that time when the upperclassmen play a fun, but fierce, game against each other. The girls get the chance to get tough and play a sport that they normally wouldn't, and they have a blast doing it. Both grades spend cool fall days practicing their afternoons away to defeat the opposing class. When the big day comes, no one is sure of who will win (but each team has a pretty good idea.) From the coin toss, to the first kickoff, to the very last minute of the game; everyone was on the edge of their seats. After four quarters of a very close game, the class of 2013 prevailed and won the game, marking the second time ever juniors have beat the seniors! But what really matters is that it brings the grades together and gives girls a chance to show off what they've got.

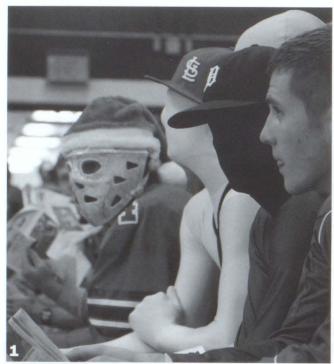

3. Katie Karadjoff and Haley Gapshes ('13) take a break from the competitive game to show that they can still have fun. 4. The juniors gather to celebrate their win and the fact that they defeated the seniors. 5. Excited for their second year of Powder Puff, Rebecca Phyle of Powder Puff, Rebecca Phyle and Brianna Osborne ('12) relive the tradition of getting ready and snap a picture together.

1. The competition to win most spirited class has the seniors in masks and Morph Suits! Brendan Buffa, Craig Gilewski, Travis Brow and Matthew Koester ('12) sit front row at the assembly ready to show the rest of the school what they're made of. 2. Nicholas Soave ('15) shows his Saints spirit by painting his face like a tiger on the red and blue spirit day. 3. Bradley Johnston, Cameron Rich and Robert Plonka ('15) had a great time at their first ever Homecoming dance.

Homecoming

It brings all of the Saints closer together in one week to start off the new school year. This year we all traveled to Las Vegas throughout the week, making a few stops in places like Detroit, Chicago, and Denver along the way. It doesn't matter if this is your first year or your fourth attending St. Clair High, everybody participates and has a fun time with Homecoming activities. Each day was a competition of which class could be the most spirited in the school. Andrew Robertson ('15) clearly has no fear of being a Super Saint his first year at our school. He willingly lets his fellow classmates color his hair to show his school spirit.

Homecoming

The flashing strobe lights brighten up the dance floor; high spirits and pumped adrenaline fill the atmosphere. VEGAS BABY! A new theme wasn't the only thing that changed this year's Homecoming. Senior Brendan Buffa gave the students what they wanted: a new DJ. Brendan so generously spent his senior Homecoming blaring the latest songs and keeping the party going. Even though he did this for free, he was paid in the obvious "thanks" from his fellow peers. The Homecoming dance was a night to remember, for some it meant the last Homecoming they would ever attend, to others it meant a welcoming to the high school life. Either way, what really happened on that dance floor ended up on Facebook the next morning.

Band & Choir

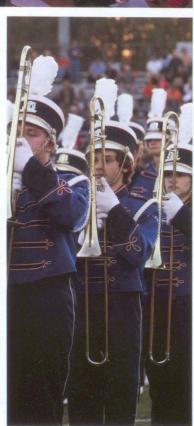

3. Perfection doesn't come without practice. Each day before the singing can begin, choir students must complete a series of warmups.

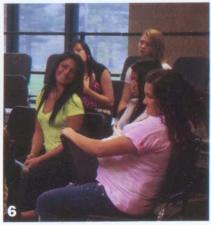

With the struggling economic times and tight budgets, arts and music have been a disputed topic among school boards, but Saint Clair High School has managed to keep all of theirs intact. Not only have the programs managed to stay afloat, but they have proved to everyone why they should continue. The band has attended festivals and competitions and continually received high ratings. In the fall, they competed in the MSBOA and earned a Division 1 rating, the highest possible mark. The choir continues to impress with their sounds and skills, performing for the student body and the community. If anyone should doubt the talent or quality of either program, a quick listen is all it should take to agree that these programs should continue

- 4. Band isn't just another class to fill their schedule, these students have to attend practices after school and during the summer. 5. There's more to band than the music. Shelby Schroeder ('12,) a color guard, adds color and movement to the half-time performances.
- 6. She may be a noob to Saint Clair High School, but Iman Azar ('14) is no stranger to music; she blends right in with the choir. 7. Choir is not just another class to fill a schedule. It takes hard work, skill, and knowledge. Mr. Carlson teaches his class about notes, rythms, timing and much more.

Student Council

With the beginning of each new school year comes the fervor of school spirit. This year SCHS's spirit soared higher than it has in the last fifteen years. Overall, last year's school spirit was nearly 70%. Thus far, in the 2011-2012 school year, participation has been nearly 110%, with the help of the double point spirit T-shirt. Student council's success is due to the general members, along with the leadership team and the never ending passion of the advisors. Last spring, 30 people applied for 16 leadership position for the following categories: four executive members, 12 chair people, one treasurer, one secretary, two leadership trainers, and one technology expert. All year round student council works to make our school outstanding for each and every

Theater Troupe

This year's theater troupe put on a touching play called The Shadow Box. The play was about three families who endured medical problems. The play showed the true meaning of love, family and support. It also taught its audience never to take things for granted. Haley Wagner played the role of a paralyzed woman with bitter hope about her life and future. The Shadow Box had a great outcome; many family members, friends and students alike came to give their support. Like always, the theater troupe successfully won over the audiences' hearts and left them thinking about what is truly important in the world. Clearly their hard work, dedication and extremely long rehearsals are all worth it once the curtain rises.

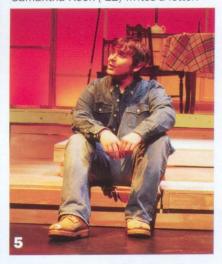

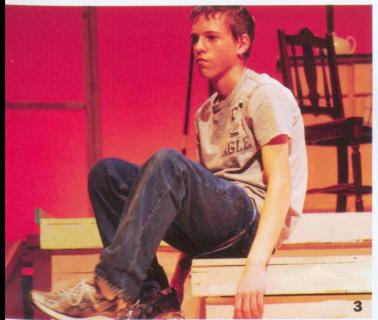

3. High in energy and great spirits, Kevin Brunner ('13) plays the role of a young boy who lives life to the fullest.

1. Andrew Beggs ('13) sits and ponders his life choices; playing a man who must deal with cancer, he asks for guidance. 2. Playing the role of Agnes, the daughter of a paralyzed and bitter mother, Samantha Kook ('12) writes a letter.

4. Saddened by the burden of an illness, Kayleigh Gauthier ('12) contemplates her family's situation and what will become of it. 5. Full of enthusiasm and great character, Garrett Hadwin ('13) brings life to the stage with his strong voice and heartwarming message.

Natural Helpers

Every year, the Natural Helpers select new members for their program, and each year the new and old members go on a retreat together. The purpose of this retreat is to work on team building and bonding. Zach Takacs ('12) recalls his favorite time from the retreat last year. Zach along with Brendan Buffa and Garrett Hutcheson ('12) spent some quality time together in their hotel room after a long day of group activities and lessons. "The best time was when we stayed up to about three in the morning stacking cups and just really getting to know each other." The satisfaction of helping others, and the fun times they spend together, is what keeps Natural Helpers wanting to stay involved.

The Gay-Straight Alliance is a fantastic organization that accepts people for who they are, and also works at putting an end to bullying around our school. The GSA accepts anyone and everyone no matter what sexual orientation. They serve as an example to our school; showing that there can be a caring, safe environment for all types of people. During Alliance Week, the GSA sold rainbow bands and everyone that bought these signed a pledge for the support of homosexuals. The GSA also created turkey hands that people around our school could write on to show all of the things that they are thankful for. The GSA supports tolerance and shows that no matter what sexual orientation someone is, everyone can get along.

Yearbook

Whether it's interviewing an incoming freshman or snapping pics at the Homecoming game, the yearbook staff is there! Yearbook is a small 4th hour class composed of bright, organized, and responsible students. The yearbook staff prides itself on including everyone they possibly can in the yearbook. They also ensure that years from now every student will have his or her own memento of St. Clair High School to look back on. Yearbook is one of the most hands-on class any student could take at St. Clair and it requires extreme commitment. Even at a rainy soccer game, or an ice cold hockey tournament, a dedicated year-booker is always somewhere taking pictures and capturing memories.

6. Committed yearbook staffers, Paige McComas and Heather Dupuie ('13) head off to the Homecoming football game to snap some pictures. 7. If anybody has St. Clair spirit, it is the St. Clair yearbook staff; we go all out with face paint, bandanas, and more! 8. Kissing him farewell, Hayden Pecorc('13) unfortunately had to leave second semester and move to Chicago. 9. Kneeling down and camera in hand, Karly Humes ('13) makes sure to capture those beloved moments for the yearbook.

What's a pile of leaves without anyone jumping in them? Taking a quick break from raking, Wendy Schweihofer ('13) and Shelby Brow ('13) take out the biggest leaf pile they see. 4. Aliens are attacking! Inside the museum's space room, Maddie Soave ('12), Kate Jarrett ('12), and Paige McComas ('13) surround the unknown, masked character.

5. Grasping his blue tarp, Nate Shrapnell ('12) discovers a faster and more efficient way to collect the different shaded leaves.

National Honor Society is an organization where getting ahead, hard work, and dedication are more than important; they are what drive these individuals. Even before school started, last year's NHS members met at Grieg Park to be assigned new committees and start planning for the upcoming year. The Haunted House and Rakeand-Run were two of many projects performed that ended up being a major success. This year's haunted house was full of history following the creative theme "A Night at the Museum." NHS members worked hard setting up rooms, decorating, and the most enjoyable part: the scare! With security guards leading the way, children were surprised to see the impressive exhibits come alive. With three hours of shrieks and cries, NHS put on an event with ease that was fun for both its members and the attending children!

Social Studies

History class is about experiencing the past, traveling back in time to experience the lives of famous rulers and great explorers. In Mr. Fox's 4th hour history class they were learning about the events of the Columbian Exchange. "Who was the Columbian Exchange named after?" Mr. Fox asked his intently listening class. "I'll give you a hint...he discovered America." Desiree Liniarski ('14) stood up out of her seat and yelled, "Lewis and Clark!" The class burst into laughter and Desiree quickly took her seat in embarrassment, hearing her own mistake immediately. (The obvious answer is Christopher Columbus).

If you could go back in time who would you meet?

"I would meet Joseph McCarthy to see if I could scare more people than he could."

-Jared Tobey ('14)

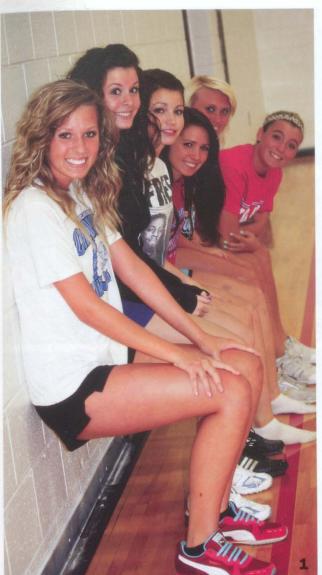

"I would meet Amelia Earhart because she was very interested in flying, and to find out the mystery of her disappearing."

-Sophia Soave ('14)

Gym

On a regular day in gym class, the "all male" weights class works out in the weight room. With all eyes on him, Jarred Likins ('14) aims to impress on the pull-up bar. Pumping out the pull-ups and showing off his bulging muscles, things were going great...when all of the sudden someone comes up from behind him and tears his shorts down! With the whole class laughing, Jarred hung there in defeat. Finally dropping from the bar from embarrassment, Jared quickly pulled up his shorts. The embarrassment faded away but the memory will live on forever.

English

1. Tying up the loose ends in her essay, Kayleigh Fountain ('13) stays focused in attempts to make her essay more personal. 2. It wasn't the butler! Michael Mule and Ian Wendt ('12) play a game of trickery and deception to figure out who is guilty of murder. 3. Getting into character, Teri Ofeno and Samantha Hanekow ('12), do the twist while participating in a murder mystery scenario. 4. Working diligently, Keegan Calnan and Tyler Smith ('14), put their technology skills to use to create a virtual presentation.

The seniors of Mrs.Westrick's ELA class were given the chance to take on a new personality while creating a murder-mystery situation. Each student was given a role, as well as a prop to bring in to add to the crime scene. During the class period, they had to act out situations that gave clues to who was guilty. Nathan Bremerkamp ('12) said, "I thought that the funniest part was when we had to do the 'twist'. It was really awkward but it gave everybody a laugh while we danced." While they giggled and danced there was still the lingering question...which of them was guilty? After sorting through the clues and deciphering hidden messages from their alter egos they discovered their killer. Unfortunately, only the class knows who did it, while the rest of SCHS will never know...

Science

When dissection week rolls around for AP Biology, the stench of animal remains hangs in the air, reminding students to find alternative routes to class. The brave students, with strong stomachs, look forward to discovering the anatomy of their organisms while the animal lovers dread cutting into their little critters. Brad Jackson ('12) had no problem with his dissection, "It doesn't bother me," he explained, "I enjoyed this dissection because we got to see other animals that our group members dissected along with our own." Through all the squeals of disgust, the lab allowed students to see similarities between each creature and make connections that no virtual dissection could have replicated. Whether you're an animal lover or a future surgeon there is one thing that's certain, formaldehyde smells horrible!

4. With victory in sight, Katie Weatherly ('12) launches her catapult, and watches her marshmallow soar.

1. Way to represent! Mr. Burdick, Grace Smith and Mikaila Marshall ('14) have some fun during a CSI lab in chemistry.

2. Mentally preparing for his dissection, Chris Martus ('13) pulls on his gloves ready to start the lab. 3. Will it float? Jeana Elles ('14) shows her personality while guessing which objects will pass the test.

World Language

If there is one thing students look forward to in a world language class, it would be the unique tastes of the culture they are studying. Fiestas rock Spanish classes, while French parties give the French students a chance to try out their newly acquired skills. Speaking a new language isn't all fun and games though. It takes hours of reviewing and practicing the crazy and unfamiliar vocabulary. Those students lucky enough to go on the spring break trip to Spain and France know that all the hard work will pay off. "I'm so pumped for spring break; I can't wait to try to speak French in Paris!" Emily Kenny ('14) exclaims. World language classes are a fun way to experience the different cultures and lifestyles around the world.

Barcelona or Paris?

For Spring Break 2012, World Language classes have the opportunity to visit two amazing cities, Barcelona and Paris. We asked them which one they are more excited to visit, and these are their answers...

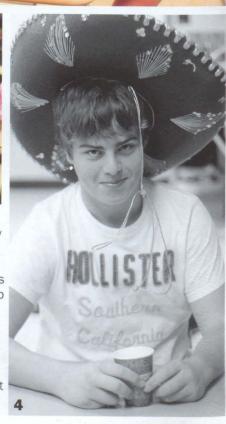

13% said they would prefer to go to Barcelona.

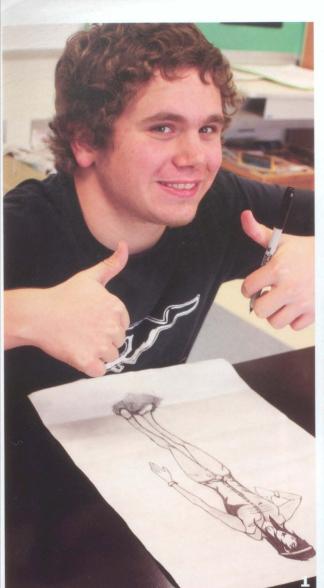

87% said they would rather go to Paris.

1. Cloudy days can't bring down Schuyler Patterson-Rostine ('14) as he works diligently on his French weather forecast. 2. Knowing that first hour can always drag on, sleepy Bryanna Leenknegt ('14) stretches out across a few desks, trying to catch up on some sleep during French class. 3. Enjoying their first fiesta, Monica Matthews ('14), Paige Moore, and Danielle Osiwala ('15) crowd together to chat about how much fun Spanish 1 can be!
4. Rocking his large Mexican sombrero, Jake Stablein ('15) doesn't seem too excited about Spanish class.

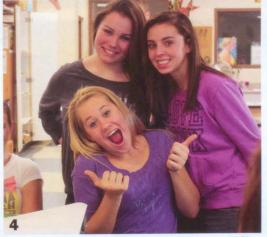

Art

Water colors and colorful crayons give art students the chance to express themselves in creative ways. Yet being naturally artistic isn't the only talent they uphold... students in Mrs. Whisman's class prove that sketching and musical talent come hand-in-hand. Luke Skinner ('15), and other art students, make up their own songs and raps during class and their tunes can be heard throughout the hour. "It was so funny, he had the whole class laughing!" student Micayla Meyers ('14) confesses. Creativity flows in every SCHS's classroom and of course, beautiful masterpieces (and great songs) are created all the time

1. Beaming with excitement, Jason Bratton ('12) flashes two thumbs up as he finishes the last details on his unique sketch. 2. Always willing to lend a helping hand, Micayla Meyers ('14) and Shay Goodwin ('13) put their artistic abilities together to create a beautiful masterpiece.
3. Letting the creative juices flow, Genevieve Kue ('15) gets inspired as she gazes upon a guiding picture of what she desires to sketch. 4. Being incredibly cute isn't the only thing Kaitlyn Vanhuysse, Chelsea Schweiger, and Peyton Shafer ('15) have in common; they also all have a creative side that helps them succeed in their art

What's your inspiration?

Dodge a Wrench...

To the students of Saint Clair High School, dodge ball is not just a game. Under the crazy hair, make-up, and cooky garb, lies the heart of the beast. Dodge ball is a school wide competition involving a battle of the sexes along with a battle of the classes. The winning team earns bragging rights that last through the school year. This years' annual dodge ball tournament had fourteen male teams and seven female teams. The tradition of dodge ball has been carried on for fourteen years, and this year went off without out a hitch, the victors were Hakuna matatas and Dy-Nasty.

1. Showing their "gansta' love", Luke Eitnier and Andrew Beggs ('14) flaunt what the Average Joes have to bring to the gym floor.

2. Ready to sprint for the dodgeballs, Hope Katakis ('13) plans out her strategy before the whistle blows.

Fall Fun

Take in the bursts of color, behold the changing leaves and embrace the crisp breeze. Fall is a time of change. Summer ends and students head back to school and start their routines all over again; getting older and wiser with every passing year. There are many activities that only come around during this time of the year, such as football games, apple picking, haunted houses, and of course, Halloween. Fall also brings out the Saints' proud fans in the stands. Friends come to support teams with witty signs, they dress up in costumes, rake leaves, and even carve jack-o-lanterns. St. Clair High School students are very active during the fall and enjoy having a good time!

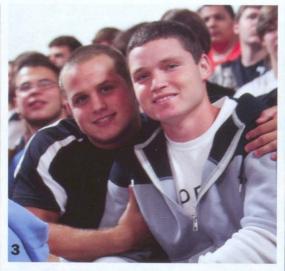

Which holiday do you enjoy more and why:

Halloween or Thanksgiving?

40% of St. Clair High school students chose Halloween because of all the free candy they got and being able to dress up as whatever they want for the night.

60% of St. Clair High school students chose Thanksgiving because of all the delicious foods, deserts, and spending lots of quality time with their loving families.

"Everything has its beauty but not everyone sees it." -Andy Warhol

Frosty the snowman was nowhere to be found, and this was far from a white Christmas. This year's chilliest months may not have let it snow; but that didn't stop our Saints from enjoying the winter wonderland. Mother Nature had no problem giving us some of that ice ice baby, sending some unlucky Saints into the ditch. When the holidays came around, a few more unlucky Saints didn't make Santa Baby's nice list. Some spent a little too much time underneath the mistletoe, while others jingle bell rocked a little too hard. No matter the weather or Santa's list, St. Clair Saints fa la la love wintertime!

Boys' Varsity Basketball

This basketball team is made up of more than just a bunch of talented boys; these boys are like brothers. Practicing every day after school and having weekly games, they find themselves spending almost every minute outside of school together. Most of the boys on the team have been playing together since freshman year. Having large shoes to fill from the past year's season, but also having lost two skilled players, people were skeptical of what exactly these boys would be able to accomplish. However, exceeding expectations, the boys defeated Lincoln High School (Warren) for the first time in the memory of any player, TWICE!

1. Once a year, these boys come together, using their skills to play for an endearing cause that is close to many fans' hearts. Joining arm in arm, these boys compete in the Pink Halo Tournament raising funds that will be donated to The National Breast Cancer Foundation.

JV Boys' Basketball

This year brought big potential for the JV boys' basketball team. The group of tenth graders is very talented and has been playing together for many years. They run plays like clockwork and are constantly bonding. They practiced like they played, and this lead them to a winning season with a record of 17-3. Point guard Connor "Bob" Winkler ('14) said, "The highlight of the season was when Clarke hit the buzzer beater to win the Port Huron tournament. Next year im looking forward to playing along side with Jared Tobey and the sweet Varsity jerseys!" Many of the boys would agree with Bob about the season and are looking forward to next year.

Freshmen Boys' Basketball

This year brough a big change for the freshmen who tried out for basketball. It is a big change from the middle school games that they played last year. They had bigger competition, more intense games, and many more plays to run. They did not have the oppertunity to play in the Pink Halo tournament this year because Marine City did not have a Freshmen Team. That did not stop these boys from having some great moments on the court. Although the season was not as successful as they had anticipated it it be, they still came out as a strong foundation for next year.

1. Making it look easy, Austin Wiley ('15) easily makes a free throw against Lake Shore. 2. Ready to get the rebound, Larry Ochadleus, and Brandon Paylov watch their shooter in a close game against Sterling Heights.

One of the top shooters for the Saints this season was Adam Tobey ('15).

Varsity Girls' Basketball

Being a part of the Lady Saints isn't just a commitment to the team for these girls; it means being a part of a close -knit family that takes care of one another, on and off of the court. Whether they are resting on the bench or out on the court, they are always offering genuine support and encouragement. The Lady Saints ended their season with a record of 13 wins and 7 losses, highlighting the season with two great wins against the Mariners. Not only did they defeat the Mariners 42 to 18 at the Pink Halo game, but they crushed them with a score of 63 to 19 during their first game of the season. The Saints also defeated the Vikings by ten points with a final score of 50 to 40 at the end of the season. Coach Schweihofer sums up the season nicely by saying, "The season was like a roller coaster, but in the end we all became better players and better teammates."

3. After inbounding the ball, Courtney Ingles ('14) looks down the court in hopes of advancing the ball to the forward. 4. Finding the open space, Brittany Schweiger calls for her teammate to pass her the ball so she can take a three point shot.

As you turn in your uniform for the last time in your highschool career, what thoughts will be going through your head?

"It was disappointing that the season had to end like it did, but I had a lot of fun with this team and I have a lot of memories."

-Teri Ofeno ('12)

"It's kind of sad that I'm done with basketball forever, but I'm on to the next chapter of my life."

-Sara English ('12)

"It's going to be sad leaving all of my friends and playing with my team for the last time. It was a great run."

-Haley Rutledge ('12)

"I wouldn't have been that sad because my season ended when I tore my ACL, but it's still sad that it's the end of highschool basketball."

-Rebecca Ingles ('12)

"It stinks; I'm going to be really sad."

-Taylor Johnson ('12)

"Kind of sad because it's all over and done with when you turn in your uniform. I'll be really sad."

-Rachel Kehoe ('12)

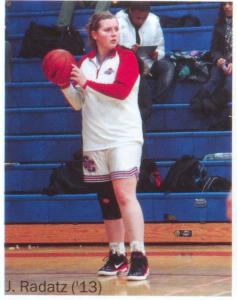

5. Taylor Johnson ('12) leaves her defenders in the dust as she makes a break down the court for a layup. 6. The Lady Saints form a line to show their respect during the "Star Spangled Banner" before getting their names announced. 7. The girls get pumped up by giving each other high-fives and low-fives when their names are announced after their pregame warm-up. 8. Haley Rutledge ('12) concentrates on following the shot in hopes of grabbing an offensive rebound and putting the ball back into the basket. 9. Utica defenders prove unsuccessful in stealing the ball away from Sara English ('12) as she takes advantage of her speed and stamina to maneuver past her opponent.

JV Girls' Basketball

As winter approached and the cold set in, the JV girls basketball team faced new and old challenges alike. One of the highlights of the junior varsity basketball season was when they got the opportunity to meet Greg Jones of the New York Giants. An Alumni to Utica, and also a high school varsity basketball player, Greg Jones' wife attended the game with her husband; the New York Giant's linebacker. The girls received pictures with the star-studded athlete and also got autographs. The JV team ended the season 16-4 and managed to stay almost injury free.

Row 2: E. Monoyian, A. Miller, G. Breuhan, and D. Liniarski.

Although the score board was against them, the JV girls' basketball team huddled up to go over their team plays and finish strong in the last quarter.

Freshmen Girls' Basketball

Although transitioning from middle school to high school may have been somewhat of a shelter-shock, the change in the basketball program was no big deal for this year's incoming athletes. It may have been intimidating to play at the high school level yet, with an open mind, the freshmen quickly befriended the girls on the junior varsity and varsity girl's basketball teams. Chelsea Schweiger recalls one of her better experiences on the basketball team, "The moment that we defeated Warren Mott High school... it was a tough game, but in the end we all worked together and beat them 24 to 21." Overall, the freshmen stepped up to the high school level and played with ease, ending a successful season 16 and 3.

1. Waiting for the perfect opportunity, Peyton Shafer, Paige Moore, and Rorie Dale get ready to sub in before half time. 2. With intense concentration, Lexie Painter focuses on the net instead of the roaring crowd while shooting her free throw.

Preparing to defend the opposing team, Chelsea Schweiger, Rorie Dale, and Ellen Fitzmaurice partner up and block the other team.

Hockey

The cheers of the fans, the flying of the pucks, the sound of the buzzer; these are all essentials of any ordinary hockey game. What sets the St. Clair hockey team apart from others is the skill of our players, as well as the intensity of their supporters. The hockey team has had a huge turnout this year when it comes to fans; every game is always packed with students. Not only do the fans scream and shout, but sometimes their extreme enthusiasm calls for extreme measures. The visitor and home benches had to be switched, permanently, so the St. Clair fans would no longer terrorize the opposing teams. Now let's put aside the fact that the cops were even called and focus on the stats; St. Clair has had a slippery season (no pun intended) with 7 wins, 2 ties and 16 losses. With the backing of that St. Clair spirit, every player has made sure to stay on his game and keep his head up. There is nothing a school appreciates more than some good sportsmanship.

- 5. Full of concentration, Assistant Captain, Kyle Pearson ('12) has his head in the game as he prepares to score another goal for St. Clair. 6. Skating with skill, Jacob Cronenworth ('12) builds up speed before performing an intricate play that will not only score the team a goal, but catch the fans' eyes as well. 7. Ryan Gilleran ('12) gathers his focus and prepares for a face off with the opposing team.

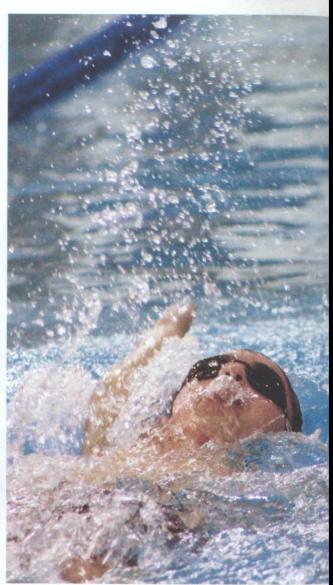

Swim & Dive

The varsity swim team spends time during practice doing some of the most insane workouts you could possibly imagine. They are typically in the pool before most students are even awake. Coach Seaman whips her teams into great shape every year, putting them in the perfect position for a successful season. Andrew Snider ('13) has been the leading 500 yd. freestyle swimmer for the last two years. Although he stopped swimming over the summer, he became the team's top sprinter in the 100 yd. freestyle and wants to become the best in the area. He qualified for MAC this year and the team placed third overall in the blue division. Charlie Shinske, Kent Gamber, and Kevin Brunner all qualified for states this year. Charlie placed 10th in the 100 yd. backstroke with an outstanding time of 56:89. Kent placed 31st in dive while Kevin placed 20th, making it through the first cut. All three boys did an amazing job and became role models that their teammates could look up to. Their accomplishments definitely did not go unrecognized.

1. Tristan Gnesda ('15) comes up for a quick gasp of air as he races down the lane. 2. After winning a relay race with his fellow swimmers, Charlie Shinske ('13) takes a moment to catch his breath.

Wrestling

Undeniably the wrestling team's most exciting and intense match of districts was against the Marysville Vikings, Bradley Johnston ('14) scored significant points for the team. Brad wrestled in the 152 pound weight class. By the time the third period came around Brad was losing by an upsetting 14 points, but he never gave up. He got a quick reversal, turned the Marysville wrestler onto his back, and pinned him! With twenty seconds left on the clock, Brad came back and won the match, scoring six very important team points for the Saints. St. Clair ended up winning the first round of districts 29-33 and advanced to wrestle Cross-Lex in the finals. Although the boys lost a hard, fought match they still took second place in districts. At individual districts, placing third was Michael Denny ('13), along with Colton Pfaendtner ('14) who placed second, qualified for regionals. Colton wrestled amazingly at regionals, placing second. He became the first wrestler in 35 years to qualify for states from St. Clair High school.

1. Ryan Boucher ('13) uses a perfect technique to muscle over a Clawson opponent, achieving his 50th win of the season. 2. Stunning the home crowd with his performance, Bradley Johnston ('14) takes a shot off the whistle in his match against Centerline.

8. At the individual regional's meet, Colton Pfaendtner ('14) fights in double overtime to make it into the finals. Colton won the match and took second in the tournament, advancing on to States.

Competitive Cheer

Executing back walk-overs, back handsprings, scorpions, and cradles, there wasn't much the cheer team couldn't handle. Not only did they cheer and stunt at the boy's varsity basketball games, they traveled and competed all around the state. Although they may not have won every round they competed in, they continued working hard, and they perfected their routines. Many girls learned new skills that helped gain several points at Warren Woods Tower. Micayla Meyers ('14) who learned her back tuck and Alison Tackaberry ('15) who conquered her scorpion were two teammates that pushed themselves to the next level. Although they did not win every single performance, they still won by displaying St. Clair spirit and coming together as a team.

1. At their home competition, the cheerleaders make their coaches proud by nailing all stunts in round three. 2. Taking a break from pumping the boys up, Holly Grieg ('12) and Gabby Nocifora ('15) observe the intense basketball game.

Cheerleading, like anything else, has its ups and downs. In the eyes of someone on the team, what exactly are those ups and downs?

What is the best part of being a cheerleader?

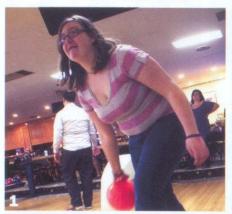

While most people think cheerleaders are all about looking glamorous, that is not Michaela's answer. She loves to focus on being a family with the girls on the team. To her, the most important aspect of cheer is sisterhood.

What is the most difficult part of being a cheerleader?

"Although there are not a lot of bad things about cheerleading, the worst part of the sport is when someone on the team gets hurt," announces Michaela. "This competitive cheer season Chelsea Fraley ('13) broke her nose and it was a huge disappointment."

3. Supporting their team, the competitive cheer squad is enthusiastic while cheering at the Pink Halo game. 4. It is not always fun and games for Micayla Meyers ('14) and McKenna Cichocki ('15) who have to focus their attention on spotting Courtney Distelrath('15). 5. Like every other sport, cheer practice helps the team improve. At one of the practices, Emma Braden ('12) takes a break from stretching to show her excitement of being on the team for her last year. 6. With their hair braided and their ribbons tied tight, Ellie Dillion, Miranda Meinke, and Madeline Easterling ('15) enjoy looking fabulous.

Unified Bowling

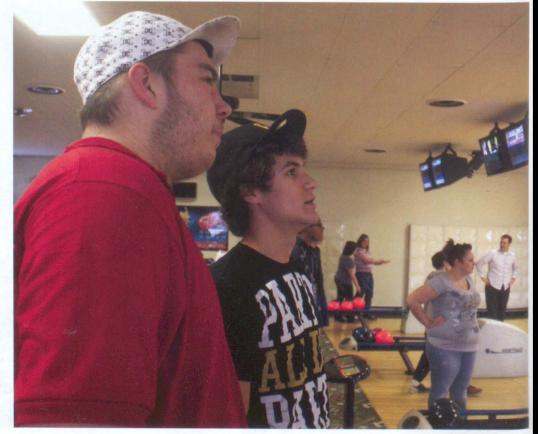

1. Dana Delore ('14) isn't looking to become the next bowling superstar, but she enjoys hanging out with friends at the Voyageur every Tuesday for Unified Bowling practices. 2. After an intense victory over teammates, Nicole Shovan and Ashley Sudau ('12) embrace in a hug goodbye until the next practice round. 3. Unified Bowling provides Matthew Corwin and Rachel Cook ('14) a chance to have fun together outside of school. The team meets weekly at the St. Clair River Lanes to prepare for the Unified Bowling Tournament that is held in March. 4. Unified Bowling combines Special Olympics athletes and their sponsors into teams of two that train and compete each year in an annual bowling tournament. Leo Terzo ('13) and Lucas Furton ('15) paired up this year in order to be ready for all the tough competitors that await.

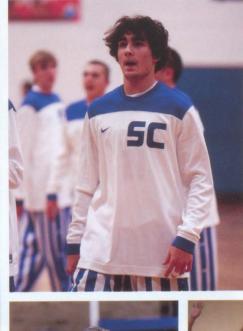

What's that you say? Saint Clair High School has a bowling team? Yes. indeed, we do. As our school grows, it continues to gain diversity. However, Unified Bowling is unique in comparison to all other sports, though. Lead by Mrs. Fitzmaurice, the team gives special education students the opportunity to pair up with a fellow Saint and compete in a competition held, this year, at the Saint Clair River Lanes in March. "I always have so much fun and I love meeting new friends," said KasC Trombley at one of the practices that are held every Tuesday after school. "I can't wait to beat everyone at the tournament!" Although her win is not a guarantee, it is sure that the bowling team is a special opportunity that benefits many.

Winterfest

Over the years, all of the hype and excitement for Winterfest has significantly decreased. What used to be practically a second Homecoming has turned into just another occasion for girls to get glammed up and boys to unleash their wild dance moves. Although there were only roughly 300 tickets sold, half as many as Homecoming, don't let the number fool you; the dance could be considered a success. Using only half the gym, Student Council transformed our school into a winter wonderland. Although some students talked negatively about Winterfest prior to it, those who attended proved them dead wrong. With a DJ passionate about his work and the most phenomenal lights, those who attended were presented with the opportunity to have the time of their lives, and they did just that. After all, it's all what you make of it!

Winterfest

Winterfest seems to have a unique and significant effect on us, the students here at SCHS that is. With the pressure on and the competition heated; even students who hardly sport red and blue practically "rain spirit" during Winterfest week. It's the week where we see each other's true colors. You thought you knew the girl in your math class who sat in the corner and chewed on her pencil erasers, but now she's suddenly wearing more winter gear than you wore to Mt. Holly last Friday. Student Council came up with crazy themes that were easy enough to incorporate into a morning routine, and cohesive enough to bring the student body together.

Robotics

The dedication and time put into the Robotics Club is extraordinary and often overlooked. The Robotics Club takes weeks to prepare and build their robots for the yearly competition. This year, Ian Campbell ('12) expects "to put up a good fight, and hopefully make it to states, and then I aspire to go to the national competition." Stefan Kraft ('14) also explained, "I'm most excited to see every one else's creations." Obviously, the Robotics Club has high expectations for their pieces that they created this year for the competition, and have high ambitions of going far.

Theater Troupe

1. Alyssa Gunderson, otherwise known as Dorothy, sings to the lion to give her some courage and self-confidence. 2. The role of Glinda the Good was played by Olivia Child ('14), one of the many cast members that played a significant role in the production. 3. Some of the cast members dance while Dorothy gets ready to enter the Emerald City and visit the Wiz. 4. The lion, Amber Gerritts ('14), gives some of the field mice some attitude after they try to arrest her for being seduced by the poppies. 5. Andrew Beggs ('14), also known as the scarecrow, waits patiently on his post for his cue.

This year, the cast of The Wiz consisted of several underclassmen, including the lead. Alyssa Gunderson ('13), who played Dorothy, said "I had to have a lot of patience working with so many new actors. The days leading up to opening night were filled with stress, a lot of pressure, and even anger at times." Though the play was filled with underclassmen, it did not mean that the performances lacked in any way. People who attended gave rave reviews. The amount of time, dedication, and practice put into The Wiz surely proved that when it came time for the performances they were seasoned pros. Alyssa said, "Overall, the play was a great success and I can't wait for the next one!"

1. Writing down the rules of the ice breaking game, Karly Humes ('13) takes charge by attempting to get everything organized. 2. Genevieve Kue ('15), gets a hint and tries to figure out who's name is on her back. 3. Intently listening to the conversation, Mia Mannella ('13) and David Billeaudeau ('14) are eager to hear more. 4. Feeling mischievous, Andrew Robertson ('15) shows his silly side during their first meeting. 5. Taylor Stone ('13) sticks a cleverly chosen name on Shannon Stone's ('13) back during a fun, getting-to-know-you game.

Many people may think that all Oasis does is profess their faith, but in truth, they do much more than that. Oasis is a group of students who get together on Wednesday afternoons and use their faith as a way to become closer to one other, and anyone who wants to join. "I chose to be a part of Oasis because it's an extension of my youth group. I really like it because it helps me connect with new people in school," said McKenna Ciner ('15).

Oasis

National Honor Society

For those who are not familiar with the National Honor Society, community service hours are not the only thing this group requires of its members. Along with countless events that donate to multiple charities, NHS also puts on a senior citizen dinner, holiday babysitting, dinner at the Ronald McDonald House, blood drives, and much more. Being a member of NHS requires leadership skills, dedication, and a drive to be involved in the community. The students that take part in NHS get to experience what it's like to organize, prepare, and be involved with events that benefit other people, instead of just themselves.

2. This year's pop tab drive was donated to the Ronald McDonald House; a house that supports families with kids who are patients at the Children's Hospital.

- 3. Mrs. Higgins posed for a picture with her mother during the senior citizen dinner before The Wiz. 4. Creatively putting some little kids in their place, Ryan Schuh ('12) helped out during the holiday belistling.
- 5. Ginny Fielhauer ('13) helps a little one design a nifty craft out of pipe cleaner, while also keeping him occupied.
- 6. Preparing some salad for the senior citizen dinner, Savannah Koester ('14), Lindsey Lawson ('12), Amanda Slis ('13), and Sam Schwartz ('12) take a second to get a picture of their sheer dedication.

Student Council

1. Playing peek-a-boo, lan Boden ('13) and Allie Gehl ('14) peer through the winter crepe paper door frame leading into the gym. 2. With patience, Chelsea ('13) and Rachel Fraley ('12) untangle a mound of Christmas lights that will later light the gym. 3. With a steady hand, Lauren Dombek ('12) decorates the festive "ski lodge" for the Winterfest dance. 4. Delegating the heavy workload, Taylor Warren, Shannon Johnson, and Jacob Ranshaw ('13) shake off their sleepiness in order to decorate the gym quickly. 5. Imitating a fatal incident, Erich Eberhard ('13) "accidentally" falls from the scaffolding during set-up prior to the dance. 6. Supervising the "Stu Crew," Chris Martus ('13) hangs lights with the help of the lifts. 7. Reminiscing over childhood activities, Claire Mattson and Cassie Harms ('15) cutout snowflakes that will later adorn the commons.

This past November, SCHS sponsored its second annual Penny War. It was a weeklong event, and as the end grew nearer, the competition between the classes grew more and more intense. As the last day came to a conclusion, students emptied their piggy banks and bank accounts in order to get even one more penny closer to winning the mid-year prize. When all the pennies were counted, the final score was: juniors 45. seniors 44, sophomores 32, and freshmen 21 points. With a clever tactic in place, the juniors won the mid-year prize, which allowed them to enjoy a morning movie of the Christmas favorite, Elf. The grand total raised for this event was $4,368. The money was donated to Blue Star Mothers, who will then use the money to send care packages for Operation Rudolph, Operation Peeps, and other various deeds that help bring the comforts of home to soldiers overseas.

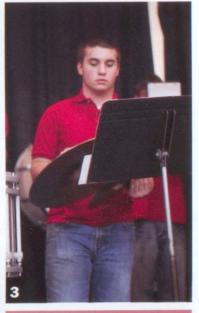

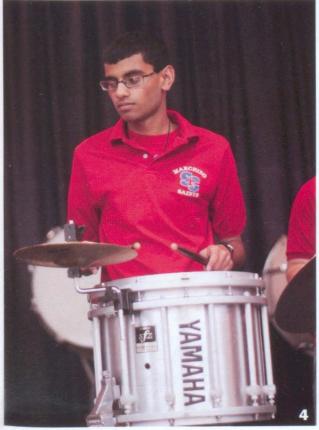

Band

As fall transitions into winter, the role of the SCHS band changes. Once winter sets in, the band starts to perform at basketball games. The band members sit in the stands and support the basketball players, as well as rive up the fans. At any given time, they can be found chatting, laughing, and cheering on their fellow classmates. Outside of supporting the athletes, the SCHS band also participates in the annual Christmas carol, where they play their instruments outside Neiman's Family Market. Through the summer heat of band camp, the cool of the autumn football games, and the chill of the winter caroling, SCHS band has just the right blend of music for every occasion.

1. Representing the freshmen, Sydney Walters ('15) shows that freshmen can be involved in school too. 2. Even though it is not the most popular instrument, Cooper Owens ('14) performs on his bassoon at the winter holiday concert. 3. Tapping his foot, Kevin Dombek ('14) keeps beat with the band. 4. After a long day of school, Sunny Karnan ('13) musters up enthusiasm for his fellow classmates on the basketball team. 5. Keeping the tempo, Michael Arft ('15) enjoys playing with his classmates and revving up the fans.

Where are you hoping your music will take you?

"I plan on either playing in a symphony or in the Marine Corps."

-Breanne Gotham ('14)

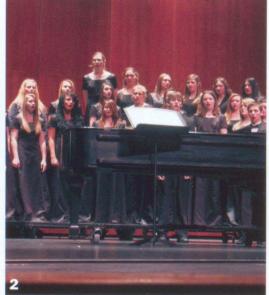

"I plan on continuing to play my flute for fun."

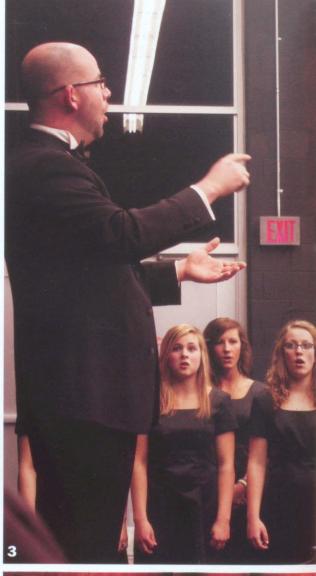

-Megan Dwyer ('14)

Choir

Everyone is familiar with the organization that charms us all with their harmonic voices. That's not new, but this year has been quite different for the students in choir. Other than the fact that they have a whole new location, which is next to the cafeteria, they now get a chance to express themselves and show that they can write their own music too. This is a big step for the members of the choir because they haven't had the opportunity to write or show that they are creative and original when it comes to music. It helps students be more prepared if they are interested in writing their own music in the future, whether they want to sing solo or combine together for a band. Also this year, the choir learned songs from different time periods, rather than just choosing modern songs. In their most recent concert, they presented the way music has changed throughout time. It sounds like choir has changed a lot this year, but no need to worry, all the members are still extremely talented and fearless, and the class is still led by the wonderful choir teacher, Mr. Carlson.

How do you think taking this class has built your knowledge of music and prepared you for the future?

"Choir has helped me understand how music is made and how to make music myself. It has also helped me find my love for the art. The class has really encouraged me to take a big step and try out for X Factor this May." -Emma Braden ('12)

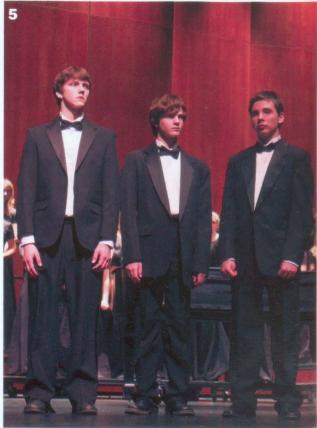

Mr. Carlson's choir is a fun-filled environment where everyone is welcomed. We do many group activities that associate with both music and the idea of getting to know the community around us. Because of this class, my knowledge of music has expanded drastically; it's also helped me meet new people and be more active in my community. The class has prepared me tremendously for future experiences. Thank you Carl!" -Morgan Kammer ('13)

1. Paige Eves ('14), Cassandra Comerio ('15), and Alexandra Solgot ('14) sing with perfect harmony, melody, and elegance; as they hit each note precisely. 2. As the members of the choir conclude their concert the soft sounds of the grand piano permeate the building.

3. Mr. Carlson helps the signers warm up before the big concert, in the Black Box. 4. Iman Azar ('14) and Alyssa Gunderson ('13) celebrate yet another outstanding choir performance.

5. Nerves don't mean a thing to Jacob Geml ('12), Ian Boden, or Nathan Lenard ('13) as they perform with the other boys in the choir.

"Remember, they've never seen you before in their life." -Andy Warhol

Justin Boucher ('13):

" I'm a pretty shy person in general. Mr. Volz is by far my most favorite teacher and I really enjoy playing in pit orchestra for him. Other than that, I'm a boring person. I like to sleep my weekends away and I don't know what I want to do in college."

Lacey Rickman ('14):

"Hi! I'm Lacey! After I graduate, I plan to attend Ferris State University to become a social worker." When asked why she wants to go into social work Lacey explained, " My best friend was abused as a child and hearing the things she went through, and the effects it still has on her, really motivates me to help prevent it from happening to others."

Lacey: "Talking to Justin. I learned that he is shy, but after I started talking to him, he slowly started to open up and I realized what a fun guy he is. Typically I don't iust talk to random people. I usually stick to friends I've always known, but talking to him made me realize what I'm missing out on when I talk to the same people."

Justin: "It's hard for me to talk to people I don't know. I'm not very outgoing, but Lacey is just the opposite. She encouraged me to talk and pushed me out my comfort zone a bit. She made me realize that people do care and that there are people who care about more than just themselves and their friends. Thanks, Lacey.

Leah Caira ('15):

"I'm Leah and I used to play soccer when I was younger, but unfortunately, I have some health problems, now. The condition really stinks because it makes it hard for me to breathe when I'm doing just normal activities. My favorite color is red and I am part of the Oasis group."

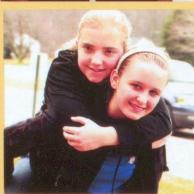

Kaity Boni ('14):

"I don't really participate in any school activities. I like being able to go home right after school and listen to music, particularly rock, or read a book. I love my dog, family, and of course, my best friend, Allie Gehle. Right now, I'm looking forward to graduation; the only bad part is that it's still two years away."

Leah: "It was awkward talking to her at first. I didn't really know what to talk about, but once we got the conversation going, it wasn't too bad. I found out we both like swimming and being outside. Although it was nice getting to know Kaity, I would rather talk to the people I know. I feel more comfortable with that.

Kaity: "Leah is a really nice person that I haven't ever talked to. I liked getting to know her. I, too, thought it was a little awkward at first. but after it was over I realized it wasn't that bad at all. I usually hang out with the same people. I am the kind of person that would rather have a few close friends than a bunch of them that I don't hang out with."

Dan: "Cassidy is a nice girl that I never would have talked to if I hadn't been introduced to her. I think it's cool that she's interested in fashion and practices it. I don't really have anything like that, I do. I did find out that we both had an easy transition from high school to middle school, though. We talked about our middle school teachers and all that boring stuff. I guess, as the conversation went on, it got easier for me."

Cassidy: " would never normally just go up to a guy and start a random conversation on my own, so it was hard for me to talk to Dan, at first. I found out that we actually had some similarities, which was surprising to me," Cassidy laughed. "After we got done talking, I realized that maybe I should talk to new people more. It's nice to meet new people once in a while."

Dan Nelson ('14):

"The name is Dan. I went to Pine River, St. Clair Middle School, and then ended up here. I really don't have a favorite color and don't participate in any sports. I used to do swim, but I only did that for two years. I just like to hang out with my friends and play video games; that about sums my life up, for now."

Cassidy Johnson ('15):

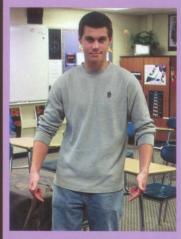

"I really like being in high school. The switch from the middle school was very easy for me and I really like that I have been able to get involved in unified bowling and drama. Outside of school I like to design clothing. I'm really into fashion, but I don't have a favorite color."

Talking to a complete stranger is usually something we don't tend to do. We tend to stick to the friends that we've always known without looking around us to see what we're missing. At first, it was awkward for all these people to talk to someone they had never met, but after the first thirty seconds, that slight awkwardness was gone. Have you ever thought about what you're missing when you stick to the same friend group? Have you ever tried getting out of your comfort zone? If you haven't...think about it... you could be missing out on an awesome friend.

"A picture means I know where I was every minute. That's why I take pictures. It's a visual diary." -Andy Warhol

Nicolas Bark ('12):

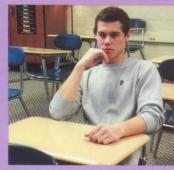

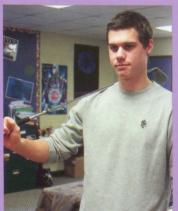

"In the morning, I jump out of bed and grab my favorite jeans that I wear each day. I cruise and jam in the car on my way to Tim Horton's before starting my school day, to grab a hot coffee."

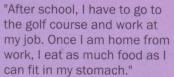

"During school, I quickly mow down my ham and cheese sandwich for my lunch. Being a senior, I roll into my blow off classes as I cruise through my last year of high school. I strut through the halls and chat with all of my friends."

Leah Brosky ('13):

In the morning, I wake up from my slumber and burst into a spontaneous song! Continuing my solo, I hop in the steamy shower and slowly begin to wake up.

During school, I sort through my stacks of books, grab the correct subject, and sluggishly drag my feet to class. I love to randomly watch and stare at the variety of students that pass by in the hallway. Wherever I am going, whether it is class, the cafeteria, or my locker, I make conversation with everyone, even if I don't know them extremely well!

Immediately after the bell rings, I race out of class to put on my sweats and run a few miles. After my run, I make my way back home and spend time playing with favorite stuffed animal monkey.

Noah Johnson ('14):

In the morning, the first thing I do is take a hot shower to wake myself up. I sing my favorite song, 'Rolling in the Deep,' by my true love, Adele.

During school, my classes are the perfect time to catch up on some missed sleep. Sadly, I have to do my school work because I know I will not do it when I get home. I always catch myself dazing off in class as I daydream about my future life.

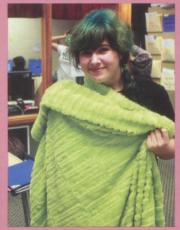

After school, as if I didn't get enough sleep, I go home and sleep some more. I then play hockey after school because it is my favorite sport and pastime.

Abby Black ('15):

In the morning, I argue with my bed about our relationship and how it needs to ends so I can get up and start my day. I attempt to put on my clothes and do my eyeliner in complete darkness.

During school, I always make corny jokes about everything and anything possible, even when it does not make sense. I pretend that I know what is going on during conversations and class discussions. I love to dance in my seat when I get bored during the hour.

After school, I jump around to really loud techno music. I spend countless hours on Skype and I blog nonstop.

Visual Diary

A quick flash into the lives of a few students at St. Clair High School, this visual diary shows the unique events that these lovely students experience in just one day of their crazy lives.

"People need to be made more aware of the need to work at learning how to live because life is so quick and sometimes it goes away too quickly."

-Andy Warhol

High school has shown me that I'm not fifteen anymore. I'm not all that innocent and I won't be forever young; I'm living the teenage dream. Sometimes a part of me wishes that I'd never grow up, but when times get tough, I remember that big girls don't cry. Somebody that I used to know once said, "make me proud." Those words have become the motto that I'll remember for a thousand years. I can feel my heartbeat race as the day I leave approaches; it's definitely not going to be easy to leave the place where I come from. However, I know that we are young, and this paradise can't last forever, but we'll leave our tattoos on this town knowing that our future will be brighter than the sun. As we pursue our dreams, our parents remind us to take care; they know we're the wild ones.

Synonym for "Gumption"
- Fortitude and determination:
guts; moxie; initiative; backbone; grit;
spirit; spunk; courage; nerve; daring;
and enterprise.

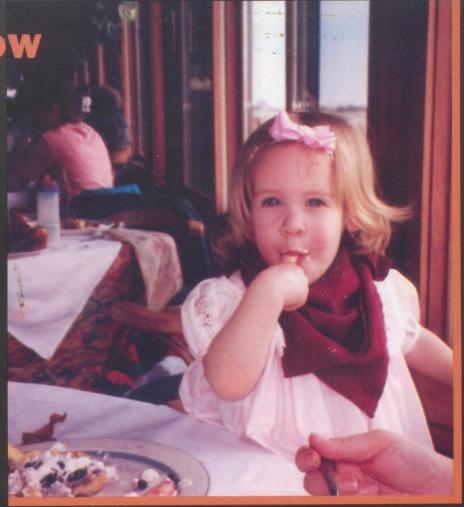

Carmen, one word could never describe you better. You will always be our little Katharine Hepburn. Wherever your life takes you, we know you will enjoy the journey.

There is a spark in you, a twinkle in your eye, a dance in your every step, and a song in your every word, that is what defines you. Of course we love you, how could we not.

Love, Dad, Mom and Camille

Anyone who has gumption knows what it is, and anyone who hasn't can never know what it is. So there is no need of defining it.

It seems like not that long ago we held you in our arms, thanking God for our beautiful baby girl, Hannah Mary. Congratulations! Now you will be graduating from St. Clair High School June 2012!! Time has flown for us. What a privilege it has been raising a unique daughter as outstanding as you. You have always been full of life and it's a pleasure watching you grow into a very special young lady. Your Dad, Mom, brother Danny and his wife Michelle plus other family members have been thankful you are a part of our family. We are blessed by your lovely smile, your contagious laughter, your academic success, your determination, all your percussion accomplishments, amazing strength, energy, your passion and love for life. Thank you for what you add to our lives. Your new journey after high school has just begun. The world awaits you, Hannah. Aim high, be true to God and trust in Him. Be goal driven, make good choices, and life will reward you and God will bless you. Always remember we are here for you. You deserve a wonderful and successful future which we see in store for you!!

Dear Ryan,

From the moment you came into our lives you have brought us nothing but happiness & joy. Growing up you were the sweetest, most sensitive & considerate little boy, and still remain all of those things and so much more. It has been such a pleasure for your father and I to watch you grow into such a smart, kind and generous young man who always strives to do his very best in everything he sets his mind to. Congratulations on your high school achievements, and we know you'll succeed just as well at Kettering University next year. Your dad and I know you will make a great engineer and accomplish all of your dreams. You make us such proud parents!

THEME:

A Theme can either make or break a yearbook. With that in mind, I was completely undecided and stressed about picking an absolutely perfect theme. But, over the summer, at a yearbook workshop, I came across a book from Andover Hillcrest that was based on pop-art. With an already existing appreciation for Andy Warhol's work, needless to say; I fell in love. I knew exactly what the theme needed to be. It would be based on an Andy Warhol quote that really exemplifies the high school experience. "Sometimes the little times you don't think are anything while they're happening turn out to be what marks a whole period of your life." With the theme finally chosen, I became dedicated to fulfilling my dreams for a pop-art yearbook, while being conscious of avoiding tackiness. I had a very strong, clear vision for what I wanted; loud colors and blunt quotes were necessary. Although I was nervous about pursuing something so bold and unique, I was completely backed by my staff. With the support of my Jostens representative, my advisor, and my fifteen fabulous staff members, my vision became a reality.

Editor in Chief, Lauren Bondy

TECHNICALITIES:

The 2011-2012 yearbook was produced by Jostens Printing and Publishing in Topeka, Kansas. The 236 page book was printed in color for the 7th consecutive year. The completion of this book would have been impossible without the help of our Jostens representative Michael Page, and our in-plant representative Cathy Goodman. The 16 computers used by our staff were equipped with Windows 2007, which allowed us to use Jostens' online site, Yearbook Avenue. Adobe Photoshop CS2 was also used by all staffers in order to scan and edit many photos. With such loud colors, we kept it simple with only two fonts; Franklin Gothic and Franklin Gothic Heavy. The very unique cover was a result of a collaboration of editors, advisors, and our Jostens representatives. The vision was of course inspired by Andy Warhol's art, so we worked to ensure the cover captured the essence of pop-art perfectly. The photos on the cover are randomly selected students from St. Clair High School.

MRS. BUTLIN, MRS. STEINLAND, MRS. MEAD, MRS. RHINEHEART,

MRS. ROBBINS, AND MRS. ZOEPLITZ:

Thank you for all your help! We appreciate you taking time out of your busy day to lend us a helping hand. All of the favors, whether they were minor or major, have really contributed to the completion of this book. Thank you so much for everything you've done for us!

MRS. BROSKY:

Any quality yearbook needs quality pictures, and you have definitely helped us out when it came to capturing those special moments. Whether it was generously giving us some photos, or helping with our cameras, you were there when we needed you! Thank you!

MRS. WESTRICK:

Mrs. Westrick, you have been such an incredible help, ever since freshman year! I appreciate that you recognized my abilities early on, and made me editor, which gave me an amazing opportunity to showcase my unique vision for this yearbook. Instead of thinking my ideas were strange or peculiar, you were completely supportive, which helped me tremendously. I also admire your drive to pursue perfection. I want to thank you for all you've done for me over the years, and I have not told you enough how much I am truly grateful for your support, especially this year!

STAFF:

Maddie- I basically consider you my second half when it came to this book. I could not have done it without you. You contributed so much to the book, and I applaud you! DO NOT even for a second think your hardwork went unnoticed.

Karly- I absolutely love the fact that you're always yearning to learn more and do more. You have never once quit or given up, and I know for a fact that next year you're going to have an incredible book!

Shelby- You are, without a doubt, one of the sweetest girls I have ever met, and I am so glad to have had you on my staff! Keep up the good work, you adorable little diva.

Nicole- You came into this class not knowing what to expect, but you managed to do a great job! Plus, you've got the most adorable laugh on this planet!

Dee- Where do I even start? You have such drive and passion for yearbook and your ability to accomplish any, and all, tasks is seriously incredible. You're a phenomenal person and I wish you the best of luck!

Heather- I absolutely love how down to earth you are, and that was refreshing during this hectic year! Thanks for all your hard work!

Kate- I really wish we could have cloned you this year. You are so organized and any job you were given, you finished it extraordinarily. You were an outstanding addition to our staff.

Katie- Don't hate me for giving you all of those extra pages, I only did it because I knew you could get them done and do a great job! I appreciate everything you have done and I'm going to miss your unavoidable awkwardness!

Mariah- Your sense of humor was crucial when it came to keeping us sane! Have fun next year and don't be afraid to put yourself out there!

Hayden- I somehow always heard your little sly comments and jokes, and I am so glad I did; you're honestly hilarious! I hope Chicago is treating you well, and we all miss you so much!!

Becca- You are definitely never afraid to speak your mind, which I actually really appreciated. Your pages were always awesome, and I'm really glad I got the chance to get to know you this year!

Wendy- You are such a diligent worker, and I hope that you can come out of your shell, because your talents need to be recognized! You are seriously a perfect person, I admire you!

Tina- Teeny! Girl, sitting next to you this year has been fabulous. You're the cutest hipster I know, and your incredible smile is contagious! You're not only talented, but a fantastic friend!

Paige- We always have such great adventures! You are an amazing person and you are constantly happy, which I adore. And if you were wondering, I would totally COB that. Allison- Sitting next to you this year was a blast, and all of our sticky notes were just great! You have contributed so much to this book, and I appreciate everything you have done. I know you will continue to improve and be a leader in this class!

All 15 of you have been such a pleasure to work with and get to know, and I will miss every single one of you! For those graduating, I know you will succeed in anything you choose to do; you're all amazing girls. For the underclassmen, keep up the good work and don't give Karly too hard of a time next year! In all of you I can see a unique ability, and I hope you can use your talent to it's fullest potential! Although this year has had its up and downs, we've all kept calm and carried on. I sincerely appreciate everything you ladies (and gentleman) have done in order to finish the book and help my vision become a reality! I love you all, and once again, thank you so much.
